Msunduzi Municipal Library (formerly The Natal Society Library) has provided public library services for the people of Pietermaritzburg since 1850. On 1 April 2004, libraries and staff of The Natal Society were incorporated into the Msunduzi Municipality as Msunduzi Municipal Library Services. The main library, named the Bessie Head Library, and eight branch libraries, aim to provide a comprehensive library service to all residents of the Msunduzi Municipal area.

THE BESSIE HEAD LIBRARY

The Natal Society Library, the public library in Pietermaritzburg, was administered by the Natal Society for over 157 years from 1850 until 2004. On 1 April 2004 the Natal Society Library and its staff were integrated into the Msunduzi Municipality and became the Msunduzi Municipal Library Services. In June 2005, during a major project where main streets and major public buildings in Pietermaritzburg were renamed, the Main Library building became the Bessie Head Library.

At the beginning of 1960, she joined the Pan-Africanist Congress, a political movement. On the first of September 1961 she married Harold Head and in March 1964 Bessie Head left South Africa on an exit permit to Botswana, where she lived and worked as a lecturer and writer until her death on April 26, 1986.

LIBRARY SERVICES

BESSIE HEAD LIBRARY

This central library has a wide range and choice of resources including books, large-print books, newspapers and periodicals, audio-books on CD and cassette, DVDs, videos, music CDs and scores, and CD ROMs for all age groups from infancy to old age.

The Adults and Children's Lending Libraries and the Music/Audio-Visual Library provide these resources for loan for recreation, to provide general information and to support cultural and personal development. Teachers, parents and students may book for groups of learners to view a variety of set works and educational videos/DVDs at the Library.

The Travelling Library takes books, including large-print, to a variety of venues in the suburban areas.

The Housebound Service delivers books (including large-print) and audio-books to the infirm and the aged in their own homes and residences for the aged.

The Adults Reference Library has been in existence for 157 years. It was founded by a group of prominent residents who hoped to promote the Colony by collecting and disseminating accurate information. This library has an extensive collection of reference materials and information resources with which it is able to support research, business, government and vocational endeavours and the needs of tertiary level students.

The Legal Deposit Collection was established in 1916, when this library was one of the 5 libraries in South Africa accorded Legal Deposit status. This privilege has helped make it into one of South Africa's major research and information libraries. Legal Deposit libraries play a unique and very important role as custodians, in perpetuity, of this country's cultural wealth and information.

Through the Adult Reference Library all the citizens of South Africa have access to this huge collection of South African books, pamphlets, government publications, periodicals and newspapers.

The Periodicals Department offers, in addition to periodicals belonging to the Legal Deposit Collection, access to a small range of publications purchased on subscription and provides a public reading area.

The Children's Reference Library has an extensive collection of material to support the educational needs of primary and secondary school learners.

BRANCH LIBRARIES

There are eight branch libraries in the Msunduzi Municipal Library Services. There are three large ones in Northdale, Georgetown and Eastwood, a smaller one in Ashburton and three small ones in Woodlands, Sobantu and Ashdown. MACS Library, in the MACS Center in Alexandra Road, is established in an old blue travelling library bus.

The eight branch libraries, while offering a smaller range of materials than is available at the main library, endeavour to meet the needs of the communities they serve by offering Adults and Children's Lending services, and Children's Reference services in support of education. A limited Adult Reference service is available at Northdale, Georgetown and Eastwood libraries. Georgetown provides a study area and a Travelling Library service to schools.
