youth services GUIDE

empowering young people with basic tools to improve their lives

What is the youth services guide?

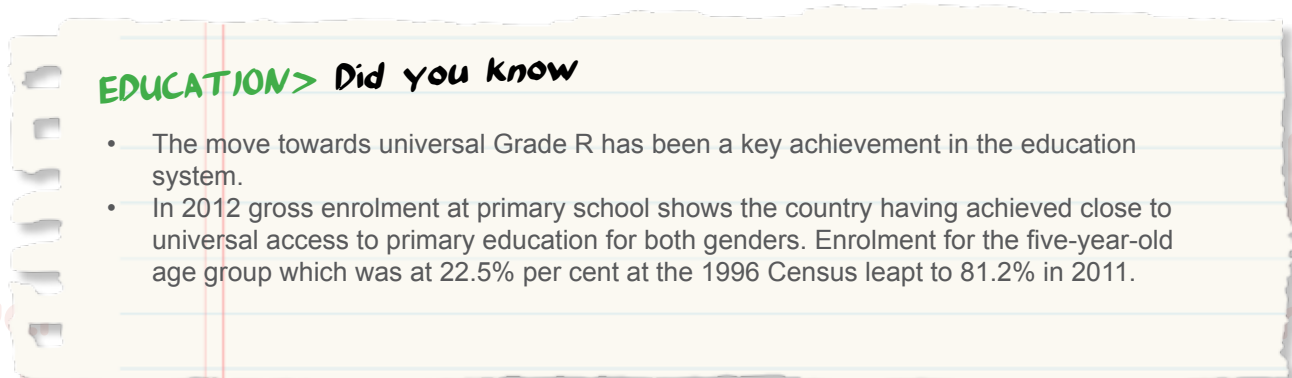

It is a booklet that contains information that young people need to empower themselves.

It provides specifically contact numbers of departments, institutions and organisations that offer services or programmes that the youth can tap into to improve their lives.

How will it help you?

This booklet will provide you with a:

- comprehensive list of contacts that will enable you to access government services that are relevant to young people.
- single directory that contains a wealth of information on a variety of key areas that affect the youth.

there are many opportunities for the youth

The National Youth Development Agency (NYDA)

Government established the NYDA to:

- advance youth development through guidance and support to initiatives across sectors of society and spheres of government
- embark on initiatives that seek to advance the economic development of young people
- develop and coordinate the implementation of an integrated youth development plan and strategy for the country.

As part of its information services and communication programmes, the NYDA provides youth with information and counselling support through its various service-delivery channels, including youth advisory centres (YACs).

The NYDA's YACs are walk-in centres where trained personnel provide information, counselling support, training and referral services to young people. YACs offer information and support across a wide range of issues and topics such as career guidance and entrepreneurship, job preparation and other life skills and provide referral services. There are different types of YACs:

Full-service YACs: A full-service YAC is the largest version of a YAC with the added advantage of offering all the NYDA services under one roof e.g. business loan finance, business consultancy services vouchers, training and access to the National Youth Service programme.

YAC points: A YAC point is a smaller version of a YAC, providing similar services as a YAC but without full access to NYDA products and services. However, YAC points have the added advantage of being even closer to communities. The NYDA is currently collaborating with public Further Education and Training (FET) colleges, labour centres and municipalities for the placement of YAC points and is continuously looking to form more strategic partnerships.

Mobile YACs: A mobile YAC is a mobile version of a YAC with the added advantage of movement between various locations. Mobile YACs also provide outreach services to communities that are unable to access the YACs, by taking career, skills development and information entrepreneurship to the youth in their communities.

YAC kiosks: A YAC kiosk is the smallest version of a YAC, usually a shelf containing information with limited face-to-face assistance. YAC kiosks are usually located in places such as churches, community structures and tribal authorities.

YACs are open to all from Monday to Friday, from 08:00 to 17:00. There are currently 121 YACs and YAC points in operation.

After participating in the NYDA's Youth Empowerment Programme, Jody Van Heerden signed a sole source distribution agreement with a USA firm to distribute and train South African firms in the use of his Computer-Aided Design (CAD) software called Planswift. His business focuses on the design, distribution and training of the architectural design/CAD software for the construction company. He recently concluded agreements with the South African Government to deliver training on using the software to review and approve construction design plans.

Rani Lonwabo went into the Young Entrepreneurship Programme with ambitions of establishing a network of Internet cafes on the outskirts of Cape Town and has realised his dream. Since being part of the programme, he has grown his business by exceptional margins and has established four Internet cafes and three computer training centres. He has also founded the Silulo College, a training facility which aims to offer internationally accredited courses in the Eastern and Western Cape as well as Gauteng. He recently established partnerships with Vodacom, MWEB and Microsoft in South Africa and clinched contracts that will see him train call centre agents at some of South Africa's biggest companies, including Pick 'n Pay and the Raymond Ackerman Academy. His staff component grew from 33 to 162 and his monthly turnover doubled.

you need skills to move forward

Higher Education (HE)

HE in South Africa has many offerings at universities, comprehensive universities, universities of technology, FET colleges and sector education and training authorities (Setas). Studies can last anything from six months to six years (or even longer), with students having the opportunity to accumulate a number of qualifications.

universities

These are “traditional” academic universities that offer mainly degrees, have high numbers of postgraduate students and conduct research. Comprehensive universities are new institutions that, in most cases, combine a traditional university with a university of technology. They offer both diplomas and degrees as well as a range of short courses.

further education and training colleges

FET colleges are institutions for everyone: the young, young adults, workers, parents, groups and the incarcerated.

- ✓ You are 16 years and older but the chances of attaining a National Senior Certificate are slim.
- ✓ You have a weak academic record and would still like to strengthen your achievement in some subjects before you consider further study.
- ✓ You are working and would like to study part-time.
- ✓ You are an older student or one who is returning to education.
- ✓ You are a parent with responsibilities that do not allow you to go to school full-time.
- ✓ You are in correctional services and you would like to further your education.
- ✓ You are undecided about any specific area of study and would like to try a few options.
- ✓ You want a technical / vocational career.
- ✓ You want to undertake HE studies but cannot afford to go to a university yet.
- ✓ You want a safe and a 'cooling out' period where you will still be engaged in some form of learning.
- ✓ You and your friends are involved in an income generating project, but you need support in developing your skills to make it sustainable and to grow it.

sector education and training authorities (setas)

The Setas were established by the Department of Labour and were created specifically to deal with skills shortages in South Africa. There are various sectors of Setas such as banking, agriculture, education and health.

The Setas facilitate training for out-of-school youth as well as anyone who needs additional skills and further training. Through the Setas one can also register for a learnership. A learnership combines education and training.

financial assistance

Government has prioritised the provision of financial assistance to deserving candidates.

National Student Financial Aid Scheme of South Africa (NSFAS)

The NSFAS is a loan and bursary scheme funded by the national Department of Higher Education. The scheme helps students to obtain a tertiary qualification by providing loans at low interest rates, loans without guarantees and a reasonable repayment plan.

The NSFAS also administers the following bursary funds:

Funza Lushaka Bursary Programme

The Funza Lushaka Bursary Programme is a multi-year programme that promotes teaching in public schools. Full-cost bursaries are available to enable eligible students to complete a full teaching qualification in an area of national priority. Recipients of these bursaries will be required to teach at a public school for the same number of years that they receive the bursary.

Students who do not have access to the Internet must contact the Financial Aid Office at the institution where they have been accepted for teacher education studies for the necessary application forms and assistance.

Visit www.funzalushaka.doe.gov.za for more information.

Social Work

Bursaries for those interested in studying Social Work are provided by the Department of Social Development. (The student applies for the bursary at the provincial department's offices.) These bursaries have a work-back condition – i.e. the student works for the Department of Social Development for the number of years for which they received the bursary (or longer).

National Skills Fund (NSF)

Bursaries from the NSF are available for students with a study focus in a scarce skills area. Universities deter-

Grants Helpline: 0800 60 10 11

Some of these may be relevant to young people, and by receiving them, many lives can be improved. These are:

Child Support Grant (CSG)

To qualify for a CSG, you must:

- be the child's primary caregiver (e.g. parent, grandparent or a child over 16 years heading a family)
- be a South African citizen or permanent resident
- not earn more than R31 200 per year if you are single; if you are married, your combined income should not be above R62 400 per year.

The child must:

- have been born after 31 December 1993
- not be cared for in a state institution
- reside with the primary caregiver who is not paid to look after the child.

Both you and the child must live in South Africa.

Disability Grant

If you have a physical or mental disability which makes you unfit to work for a period of longer than six months, you can apply for a Disability Grant.

You get a permanent Disability Grant if your disability will continue for more than a year and a temporary Disability Grant if your disability will continue for a continuous period of not less than six months and not more than 12 months. A permanent Disability Grant does not mean you will receive the grant for life, but just that it will continue for longer than 12 months.

You must:

- be a South African citizen or permanent resident or refugee and living in South Africa at the time of application
- be between 18 and 59 years if you are female or 18 and 60 years if you are male

- not be cared for in a state institution
- have a 13-digit, bar-coded Identity Document (ID)
- not earn more than R44 880 if you are single or R89 760 if married; your assets must not be worth more than R752 400 if you are single or R1 504 800 if you are married
- undergo a medical examination where a doctor appointed by the State will assess the degree of your disability
- bring along any previous medical records and reports when you make the application and when the assessment is done.

how do i apply for a social grant?

Social grant applications are administered by the South African Social Security Agency (Sassa). Information on social grants is available on the South African Government Services website (www.gov.za) in all South African official languages, or you can visit www.sassa.gov.za to find out more.

identity documents

An ID is important to get as soon as you are eligible (from 16 years of age) as it proves your identity. The green bar-coded ID is also a legal form of identity when dealing with public and private institutions. There are many occasions when you will be requested to provide a copy of your ID – for example, for access to housing, education and healthcare services; to apply for a driver's licence or a job; or when entering into business agreements.

You will also need an ID to apply for a passport, and visas to work, study or visit friends and family overseas. You will also need your ID to register to vote in general and municipal elections. IDs are issued to South African citizens or permanent residence permit holders who are 16 years or older.

You can apply for your ID at any office of the Department of Home Affairs or any South African mission or consulate overseas.

Provide your cellphone number in your application so that you can receive regular updates on the progress of your application by SMS. To get the SMS updates, simply SMS the word "ID" followed by your ID number to 32551. You will be charged R1 for each SMS sent.

To find your nearest Home Affairs office, contact the call centre on 0800 601190 or 0800 204476.

health issues

Substance abuse

A number of studies show that South Africa is experiencing a sharp increase in young people abusing substances like drugs and alcohol. Many of the patients admitted to rehabilitation and treatment centres for substance abuse are children aged as young as eight to 10. Drug and alcohol abuse at a young age is often the result of peer pressure, which starts at school.

To encourage young people to resist drugs, the Department of Social Development started a youth programme called Ke Moja, No Thanks I'm Fine Without Drugs. For more information, call the department at: 012 312 7794 For help with alcohol and drug abuse, call:

HIV and AIDS

HIV, AIDS and tuberculosis contribute significantly to the burden of disease faced by South Africans.

Responsible sexual behaviour is the best way to protect yourself against HIV and AIDS. It is advisable to be tested regularly, so that you can start treatment as soon as possible. Government clinics do HIV testing free and free condoms are provided at healthcare centres and many other public buildings.

The National AIDS Helpline 0800 012 322 provides a confidential, anonymous 24-hour toll-free telephone counselling, information and referral service for those infected and affected by HIV and AIDS.

Lovelife call centre

The Lovelife call centre provides adolescents with interactive information, counselling and a referral service in a quick, anonymous and confidential way through its toll-free youth line (0800 121 900).

please call me

loveLife's call-back service is the first initiative of its kind in South Africa to offer users free mobile connectivity to a counsellor. With this new service, people can send a "Please Call Me" (PCM) message to the youth line from the privacy of their cellphone (a PCM can be sent to 083 323 1023). The automated system calls them back and links them to a trained counsellor as soon as one is available.

expand your world through economic opportunities

Since democracy, many opportunities for the growth and benefit of all the people of South Africa have been created. Breaking the cycle of poverty in our country, and growing the economy are top priorities for government. As such, government has created various institutions and programmes to support the participation of more people in the economy.

incentive schemes

In an effort to increase industrial competitiveness and broaden the participation of enterprises in the economy, the Department of Trade and Industry (dti) provides financial support to qualifying companies in various sectors of the economy. Financial support is offered for various economic activities, including manufacturing, business competitiveness, export development and market access, as well as foreign direct investment.

Small, medium and micro enterprises (SMME) development incentives

Black Business Supplier Development Programme (BBSDP)

The BBSDP is a cost-sharing grant offered to small black-owned enterprises to assist them to improve their competitiveness and sustainability in order to become part of the mainstream economy and to create employment.

The BBSDP provides a grant to a maximum of R1 000 000 (R800 000 maximum for tools, machinery and equipment and R200 000 maximum for eligible enterprises to improve their corporate governance, management, marketing, productivity and use of modern technology).

Cooperative Incentive Scheme (CIS)

The CIS is a 90:10 matching cash grant for registered primary cooperatives (a primary cooperative consists of five or more members who are historically disadvantaged individuals).

The CIS is an incentive for cooperative enterprises in the emerging economy to acquire competitive business development services. The maximum grant that can be offered to one cooperative entity under the scheme is R350 000.

Technology and Human Resources for Industry Programme (THRIP)

The THRIP is a partnership programme funded by the dti and managed by the National Research Foundation (NRF). On a cost-sharing basis with industry, THRIP supports science, engineering and technology research collaborations focused on addressing the technology needs of participating firms and encouraging the development and mobility of research personnel and students among participating organisations.

industrial development-related incentives

Business Process Services (BPS) Incentive

The South African Government is implementing a Business Process Outsourcing and Offshoring (BPO&O) incentive programme as from July 2007. Between July 2007 and March 2010, the incentive resulted in the creation of at least 6 000 new jobs and attracted R303 million in direct investment.

The BPS Incentive aims to attract investment and create employment in South Africa via offshoring activities.

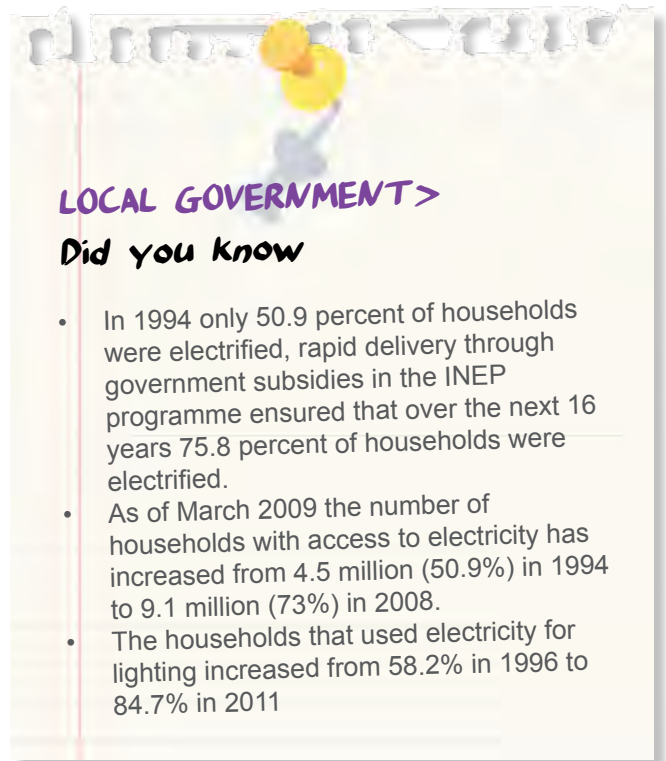

Capital Projects Feasibility Programme (CPFP)

The CPFP is a cost-sharing programme that contributes to the cost of feasibility studies likely to lead to projects outside South Africa that will increase local exports and stimulate the market for South African capital goods and services.

The size of the grant must fall within the range of R100 000 to R5 million to a maximum of 55% of the total cost of the feasibility study for projects in Africa and 50% for projects outside Africa.

Clothing and Textile Competitiveness Improvement Programme (CTCIP)

The CTCIP aims to build capacity among clothing and textile manufacturers and in other areas of the apparel value chain in South Africa to enable them to effectively supply their customers and compete on a global scale. Such competitiveness encompasses issues of cost, quality, flexibility, reliability, adaptability and the capability to innovate.

Manufacturing Investment Programme (MIP)

The MIP is a reimbursable cash grant for local and foreign-owned manufacturers who wish to establish a new production facility; expand an existing production facility; or upgrade an existing facility in the clothing and textiles sector.

Foreign Investment Grant (FIG)

The FIG compensates qualifying foreign investors for costs incurred in moving qualifying new machinery and equipment (vehicles excluded) from abroad to the Republic of South Africa.

Tourism Support Programme (TSP)

The TSP is a reimbursable cash grant that aims to support the development of tourism enterprises that will stimulate job creation and increase the geographic spread of tourism investment. The grant is for the establishment or expansion of tourism operations such as:

- accommodation services
- passenger transport services
- tour operators
- cultural services, and recreational and entertainment services.

Production Incentive (PI)

Under the PI, applicants can use the full benefit as either an upgrade grant facility or an interest subsidy facility, or a combination of both.

Eligible enterprises include:

- clothing manufacturers
- textile manufacturers
- cut, make and trim operators
- footwear manufacturers
- leather goods manufacturers
- leather processors (specifically for leather goods and footwear industries).

Sector-Specific Assistance Scheme (SSAS)

The SSAS is a reimbursable 80:20 cost-sharing grant offering financial support to export councils, joint action groups and industry associations. The maximum allocation per project is R1,5 million.

Support Programme for Industrial Innovation (SPII)

The SPII is a support programme of the dti, managed by the IDC. The SPII is designed to promote technology development in industry in South Africa through the provision of financial assistance for the development of innovative products and/or processes. The SPII specifically focuses on the development phase, which begins at the conclusion of basic research and ends when a pre-production prototype has been produced.

Seda Technology Programme (STP)

As part of the Government's strategy to consolidate small-enterprise support activities since April 2006, the activities of the Godisa Trust; the National Technology Transfer Centre (NTTC); the three business incubators of the dti, the Technology Advisory Centre (TAC); the technology-transfer activities of the Technology for Women in Business (TWIB) programme; and the support programmes for small enterprises of the South African Quality Institute were merged into a single programme – the Seda STP.

Benefits include subsidising R800 000 for tools, machinery and equipment on a 35:65 cost-sharing

Women economic empowerment incentives

Bavumile

South African women are gifted and talented in designing and crafting fashionable products for both the local and the international markets, mainly promoting South African culture and heritage. However, one of their greatest challenges is to produce quality products that can easily occupy the shelves of many local and international retail shops and boutiques, thus catching the eye of the buyer.

Bavumile seeks to ensure the quality production of commercially viable products that are produced by women by imparting relevant skills and expertise.

Isivande Women's Fund (IWF)

IWF is an exclusive women's fund established by the dti. The fund aims at accelerating women's economic empowerment by providing more affordable, usable and responsive finance. IWF targets formally registered enterprises, where 60% is owned and/or managed by women. The enterprises must have been existing and operating for two or more years and must fall within a loan range of R30 000 to R2 million.

trade export and investment incentives

Critical Infrastructure Programme (CIP)

The CIP is a cost-sharing cash grant for projects designed to improve critical infrastructure in South Africa. The grant covers qualifying development costs from a minimum of 10% to a maximum of 30% towards the total development costs of qualifying infrastructure. It is made available to approved eligible enterprises upon the completion of the infrastructure project concerned. A cash grant to a maximum of 30% capped at R30 million for the development cost for qualifying infrastructure is available.

Export Marketing and Investment Assistance (EMIA)

- national pavilions at International events
The dti assists South African exporters by organising national pavilions to showcase local products at international trade exhibitions.
- International trade exhibition assistance
The dti provides financial assistance to export councils, industry associations, provincial trade and investment-promotion agencies, joint action groups, export clubs and chambers of commerce for international trade exhibitions where there is no national pavilion scheduled/ approved.
- Group outward-selling missions.
The dti provides assistance to South African exporters who seek to conclude export orders with foreign buyers. These missions are organised by export councils, chambers of commerce, provincial investment promotion agencies, export clubs or the dti.

Film and Television Incentive

The South African Government offers a package of incentives to promote its film production industry. The incentives consist of the Foreign Film and Television Production Incentive to attract foreign-based film productions to shoot on location in South Africa and the South African Film and Television Production and Co-Production Incentive, which aims to assist local film producers in the production of local content.
