South Africa celebrates Freedom Day annually on the 27 April and the theme for this year is "The year of OR Tambo: Together deepening democracy and building safer and crime-free communities". The celebrations coincide with the centenary of the late President and national Chairperson of the ANC, Mr Oliver Reginald Tambo, an international icon and hero of the South African liberation struggle.

Freedom Day recognises and celebrates the strides that have been made since 1994, and acknowledges that South Africa is a far better society than it was under apartheid. It is also a period of reflection on what else needs to be done collectively towards the goal of building a prosperous society and improving the quality of life for all.

"This is a time to celebrate what we have achieved together in a democratic South Africa and recommit ourselves to make our country a better place to live in. The struggle for freedom didn't end in 1994, and our challenges should not overshadow the significant progress made over the last two decades. Let us use this celebration to foster a common agenda of building a united and prosperous South Africa", said Minister of Communications, Ayanda Dlodlo. We also mark the 58th anniversary of the Pan Africanist Congress and its contribution to the South African political landscape.

Google is marking the anniversary of South Africa's first post-apartheid election on Thursday with a Doodle honoring 19th century composer Enoch Sontonga, who wrote a song that is now part of the country's current national anthem.

Sontonga, who was also a choirmaster and poet, composed the song Nkosi Sikelel' iAfrika (God Bless Africa) in 1897. It became popular over the years, according to Google, and was even recorded in a London studio in 1923.

Wishing all the Municipality workers who had their birthdays in April a warm and happy birthday and last but not least let us:

- #Save water
- #Stop Illegal Electrical Connections
- #Stop land invasion and
- #Keep Msunduzi clean.

WARD COMMITTEES WORKSHOP

The acting City Manager Sizwe Hadebe, Madam Speaker Cllr Jabu Ngubo and Blessing Dlamini (manager in the speakers office) and Siwelile Zimu (IDP Manager) held a Ward Committee budget workshop at City Hall.

The workshop was based on Municipal Vision & Mission, legislative requirements, structure of the IDP, aligning the IDP and the municipal budget. There were discussions on community needs, increase of human population growth, service delivery, unemployment, decay of infrastructure, bylaws being ignored and other challenges which affect the Municipality as well as the community.

The Municipality have implemented strategic plans in place to overcome these challenges. The people within the community needs to work together with the municipality in order to resolve the challenges and issues which are faced by both parties (community and the municipality) in order to move forward.

TRAFFIC DEPARTMENT TAKES A STAND

Inspector D. Rajcoomar and Inspector N.G. Mshengu educated grade R & 1 learners from Maqongqo Primary School on the importance of road safety , traffic signs, road crossing, basic rules of the roads, safety awareness and the roles of traffic officers.

The Msunduzi traffic Department strives to make the importance of road safety information available to children in an “easy to understand” format. Children were taught on how to cross the road on the pedestrian crossing and when to cross the road. There has been a high rate of accidents on our roads as small children are affected as they are not taught about road safety.
